From the Head's Office ...

Making BCS User-Friendly

For a business to be successful, it must ensure that both its customers and employees are satisfied. The same can be said for a school and its students and staff. This is not an easy task. It requires a knowledge of what causes satisfaction and dissatisfaction, and then being able to do something about it.

In the past few years, students and staff have worked hard to make changes that might result in increased satisfaction. The Student Life Committee is mandated by the BCS Board of Directors to examine issues and develop policy in areas that affect students outside the classroom. This committee of eight to ten students, three staff members and a board member, has designed policies for drug use and harassment. Changes to the New Student Line and to the routine for send-ins and check-ins came about from recommendations by this committee. This year, they are discussing issues that range from smoking (a perennial topic!) to curfews to tai chi as a crease.

Students and staff were part of a group which met in April '98 to prepare a strategic plan for BCS. Some important initiatives have come about as a result, including house evaluations where students and staff can voice their opinions about the houses and how they are run. A facilities review has identified a number of areas which need upgrading, including those where science and fine arts are taught. It is hoped that within two years, significant changes will take place to deal with the recommendations. Students have asked that they be given a chance to evaluate their teachers, and so they shall, if not this year, then next year.

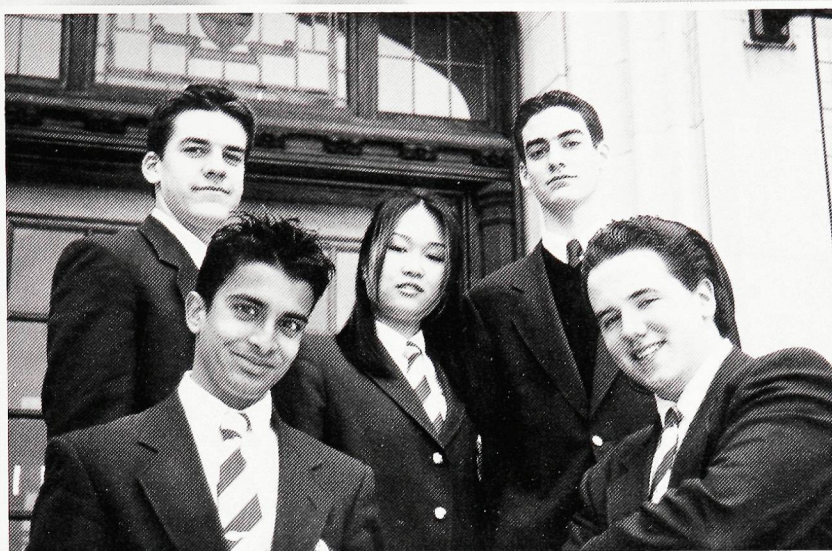

Student forums, which allow students in a particular form to voice their opinions, have led to changes. Last year, the Form VII students asked that their curfew be extended and it was, with a monitoring system run by the students themselves – and this has continued this year. Students asked that they be permitted to travel on break weekends in casual dress, and now they may. The manager of the Dining Hall has visited each house to learn how students feel about the food being served and now changes are taking place. Comments from students have led to a decision to provide more food to the houses so that they can have something to eat at night.

BCS is not perfect, and I suspect that it can never be, but we must continue to try to make ourselves better. It is important that students realize that they have a voice and that they will be listened to. I can't promise that every suggestion or request will be agreed to, but certainly each will be considered with an appropriate degree of seriousness. I hope most of you will be satisfied most of the time.

Send-ins and check-ins

A. Price

Check-ins:
A. Bovet,
M. Oh,
D. Williams

Dear Faculty Members, Graduates and Students:

Thank you all for our best year at Bishop's College School !!! So many memories...

Daniel 'HEAD' Prefect-Williams:

Tall serious, soccer and hockey player, devoted to school and his peers, and, well, maybe too much time spent with N.B....He really took his job seriously, we swear!

Alexander-Biek-Price:

A man of many great qualities. Never late for class, homework always on time, never walked to Chapman for chicken wings during prep at least twice a week, but always the right person to go and talk to.

Farhan- DJNawab (he wishes...):

A small man, always hungry for cookies, but always too late. A man of many beats and sounds. He knows that God is a DJ, and he will always remain faithless...Two years, right Alex?

Alain-Xtreme-Bovet:

For once a new student! He made us all proud, but was a little too x-treme. We loved your "spicy" quality...ribbit, ribbit.

Monica...Oh...Monica...Oh:

OH MY GOD! Chapel wasn't that scary...was it!!? What about hymn 123? The last female to stand tall and proud amongst us.

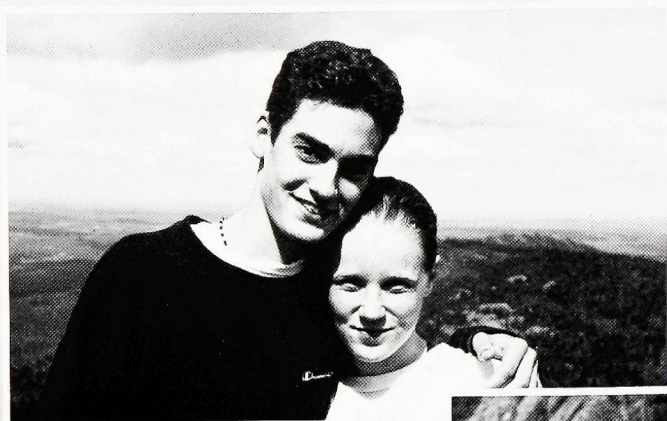

We had the most fun with you, the students, and that's what this job is really all about.

How about a game of poker!!! Deuces Wild!

Thanks,

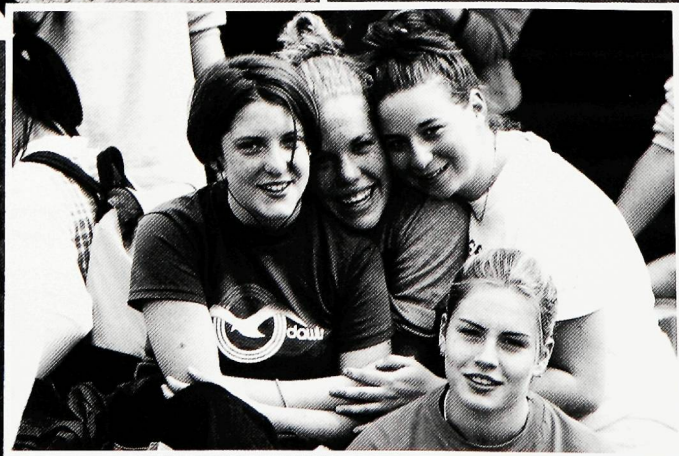

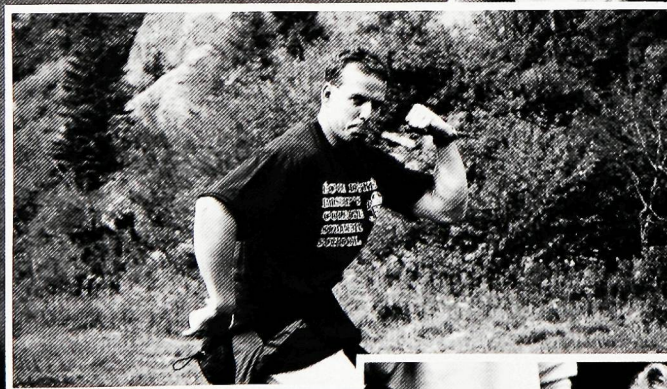

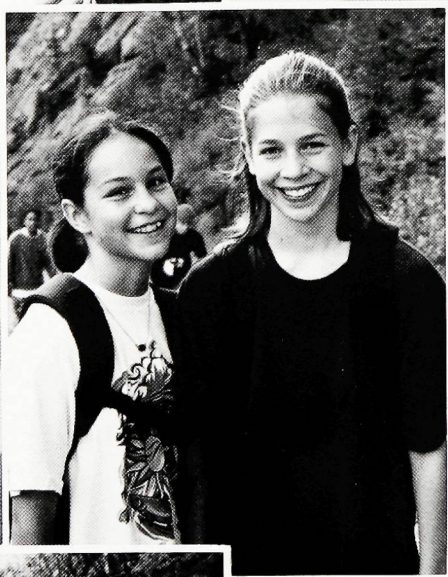

Daniel, Alex, Farhan, Alain and Monica

ELIZABETH HANNA

Wake up! 5 yrs. in this place, lots of memories. This is for the girls back in 3rd form, the 4some in 4th form, Janet in 5th form, The whole crew in 6th form, and finally the people in 7th form along w/ OOo, what a lovely cake, and the chapman conn. I luv you and will miss u all.

Liz Hanna

SURAIYA HAROON

It was great with all my new friends; new, living with so many people; sad, living away from home; fun, learning how to skate; painful, falling on the ice; educational, knowing more about myself; scary, having to live under rules. All in all, it was a fun process of being able to do it on my own.

সুরাইয়া হারুন ♥

NURA JABAGI

It all started with 2PACOS, IZIT, & no ID. KB - take care & 4get not Allah. Roomy, crotte dans poubelle. AP - I HATE YOU! MG - Wake up. JB - Thanx for everything, I will never 4get u. NT. They just don't get it. Arnold, Paki & Pepa, keep on truckin. Mom, Dad, Habib, I Love You.

GRETCHEN KRAMER

It seems like the year just flew by. I must say 'twas most enjoyable, even though at times insanely hectic. Special thanks to Jacky-poo (my favorite hockey-chick/insomniac), Xiao (to the half of the room that would never stay clean), the Gillard Gals (hurray for no laps!) and RT/MO/MG/JB/JC/BG! MUA! Good times, good times . . . Thanks mum'n dad!

ALLAN KIM

Four years . . . I was given one of my best chances to build the first part of my life. Now, it's time to pay back my gratitude to these people: McNton Crews, My K. connection, W.O, A.V, J.P and T.G. I love you, My Family, Mr. & Mrs. Williams, and H.H. Enjoy your life. Peace Out. P.S.: It's all about Love, E.B. & don't forget about the dusts, D.W.

FARHAN NAWAB

BCS, I'll miss you a lot. So many friends so little space . . . you were all great, we had some "INTERESTING" times and conversations! I will never forget you. "I learn to keep still even though I'm always moving" Have fun, good luck, enjoy life and take care, Farhan. P.S. I think I'm gonna cry! Just kidding . . .

MONICA OH

I am never going to forget what happened to me this year. I have met new friends. I really thank everyone who has helped me at BCS. I was glad to be a prefect in my final year at BCS. I thank sweetly Kimi, who is the best roommate. I also thank all my friends and my little sister, Karen(Joung-A) who supported me mentally and physically. I will remember you guys forever. I LOVE U . . . . . '^_^' M.Oh

SMITH HOUSE ROCKS - AGAIN

Smith House '99 had plenty of new blood to add to its history. And we hope that both old and new students go far in the upcoming millennium. People like Andrei Matveev, who'll end up living at raves, puffing on Russian cigars. His new saying: "Do you want fries with that?" Ben Leclair-Paquet, who'll be the next mix master at The Gallery. Jason Ragueneau will . . . ahh, forget it, only Tat can say what will happen there. Ruben Gu-Konu (first of all, nobody can spell his name, and secondly, he'll still have to wake up Victor two or three times a day to feed him) will be a track star, with Anand, with thousands of rugby coaches running after him. Edgar Meza will be the only politician / soccer player in Mexico. Go 269! Sarah will be cheering for him on the sidelines! Allen Su will be wheelin' and dealin' at one of his newly established casinos. Yutaka will finally get to see the Toronto Maple Leafs win the Stanley Cup. Francois will get to be the editor-in-chief of his favourite leisure magazine. Ian, Jonathan, and Andreas will end up taking over the world using the Internet. Rei will start his own line of professional hair-care products after his spiky afro style becomes the latest rage. Jae Won will be a millionaire after winning the "World's Messiest Room Contest," but Andrei and Ben will come a close second place. Mr. And, Mrs. Mooney will bike off into the sunset. Mr. Jackson (Bruce) will still continue to joke heartily with us in some form or another. Mr. and Mrs. Paluch will carry fond memories of their time here at BCS, far from the bitter bitter chill of Lennoxville. Adam will become the Smith House accountant. And finally, as for me, Ronak Desai, well, I'll be the PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

CHAPMAN HOUSE

The Chapman Revolution: Rise of the Underdogs

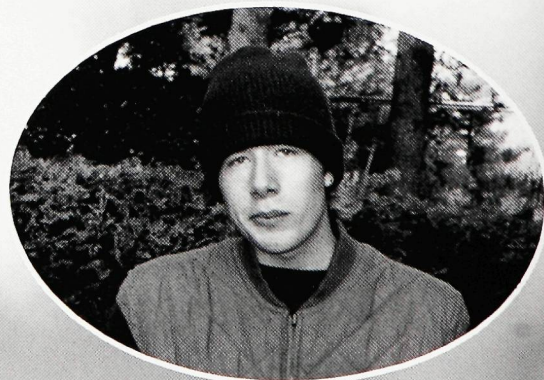

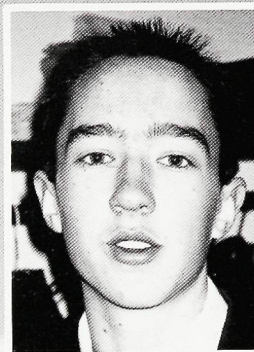

It has been done. We successfully raised Chapman House to a new level of pride just in time for the new millennium. Nobody thought of us, nobody expected us to do it, and nobody counted on those who were proud to live on the outskirts of the BCS campus to rise to the occasion. Chapman House was full of new, creative minds this year, all of whom helped us to gain our newfound respect and credibility.

Part of this new group of people was Alain Bovet, pepper sporty spice, who chose to amalgamate with the lazy and chilled attitude of Dae Kim. They ended up on the front lines in room #1, just to make sure that they were not too far from the bathroom in case a towel went missing. Direct neighbours of these dudes turned out to be a snowboarding Pakistani Prefect with an "Alarma" yellow jacket, Farhan Nawab, accompanied in good and bad times by Marius Kaiser, the fool. However, there was not just one German to find in Chapman but two, the second being Max. Smith House was just too small for him. He chose to share his room with another very unique individual: Simon Kao. Being a touch more relaxed this year, it was not surprise to see him poke his head up in front of a new computer with a huge grin on his face.

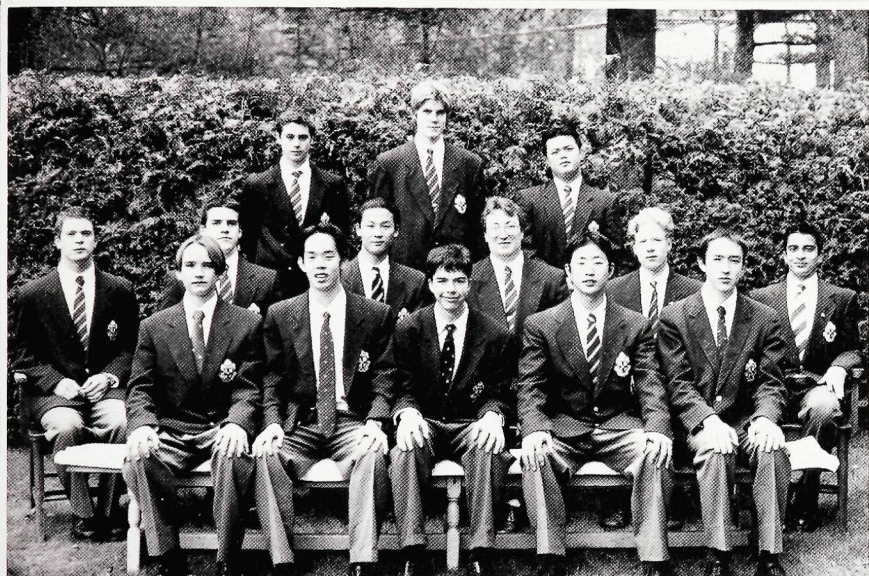

Banned on another planet was Mike, like a fish out of water. Totally isolated from all other seventh formers, he spent more time in other people's rooms than in his own, but maybe that was just because science students have hardly any prep. Right next to Mike lived somebody who answered to the uncommon name of View. However, he usually did not answer at all because he was fast asleep. This made Zarek very happy, because he often liked to stay in his room and dream of the waves he was going to ride the following summer. Javier settled into the Old Spanish Chamber. "Good luck with the girls, you know that you can always come back to us." We would like to thank him for the tuna salad in the Dining Hall. Javier was always polite and relaxed, not minding his roommate's permanent company: Dave's friends were all over the place. It's cool, right Dumas? Finishing off his amalgamation of perfection was Erik, who never got to see a lot because he found his new passions: acting, sleeping, cereal, and homework (on computers). Tony was to be his roommate. No words can describe the value of having him in the house. His presence spawned the need for an additional payphone here at Chapman.

Of course, the constant pole of power, ambition, and relaxation, or simply the best BU student BCS has ever seen, cannot be forgotten: Hugh "Sugarbear" Irwin.

Finally, thank you to Mr. D. for helping us achieve what we wanted.

WILLIAMS HOUSE

WILLIAMS HOUSE: LOOKING AHEAD AT THE DAWN OF THE NEW MILLENNIUM

Here's a look at where we'll be in 2009:

John, a part time NHL player, growing crops on his farm.

Vladimir, a Russian spy, infiltrating the White House.

German, a Mexican businessman, running his own candy factory.

Eric D. and Sebasten, playing in the PGA.

Travis, the barrelracing millionaire, travelling the world on a ski-doo, in search of the fastest horse.

Karl, lost in space.

Hector and Mauricio, the Spanish Soccer Connection scoring the points . . . becoming stars!

Rodney, the Snowblade specialist, teaching the Pros how its done.

Pablo, the world class mathematics wizard.

Samuel, owner of the Montreal Canadiens, knowing he won't get the Stanley.

Blair, the bodypiercing specialist, teaching street boys the technique.

David, the opera singer, comparing himself to Pavarotti.

Eric I.: Professional juggler, performing for sell-out crowds.

As for their T.O.Ds:

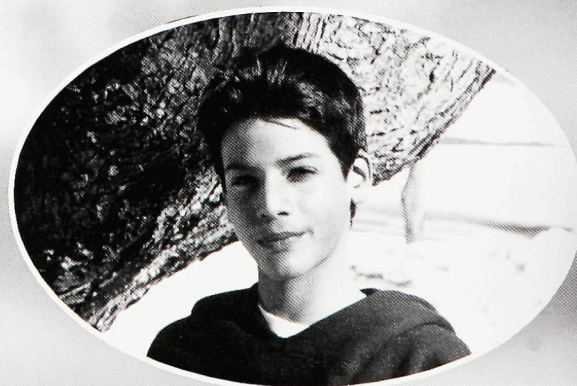

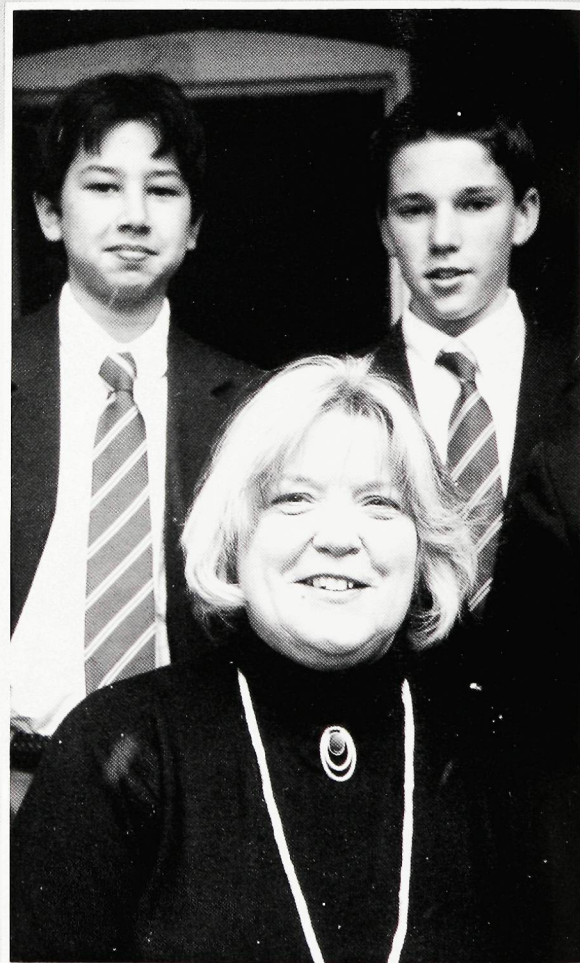

Mr. Martel, going for Prime Minister.

Mr. Maxwell, teaching Murphy's law.

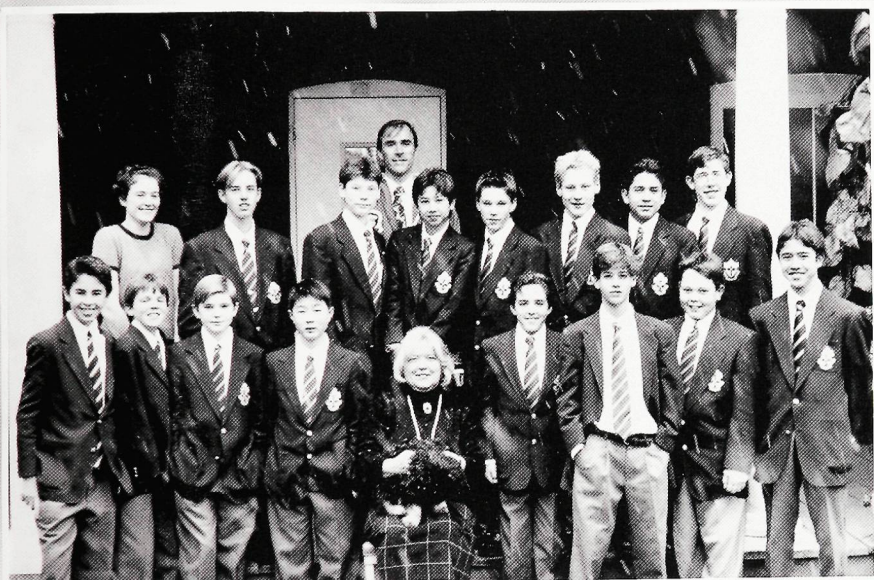

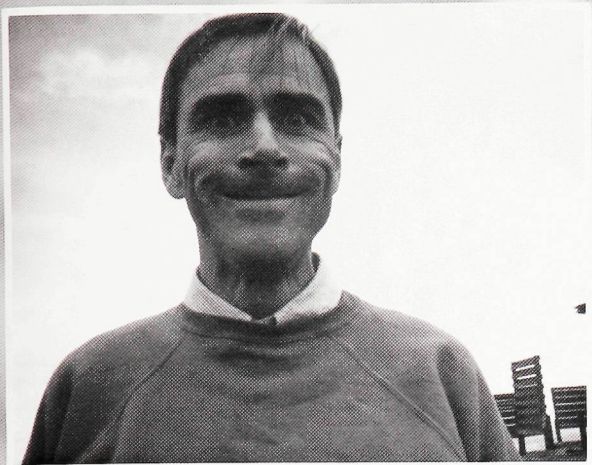

Mr. St-Jacques, cultivating tomatoes.

Catherine Macdonald, still in school.

Jane Jelowicki, still trying to make Williams House a girls' house.

GRIER SOUTH

GRIER SOUTH - GOOD OLD FASHIONED FUN

As South House approaches the millennium, there are many things that we will surely miss, but we look forward to the things that will be happening in the future. Most of us will be separated next year by moving into different houses, but nothing can change the great times that we had this year.

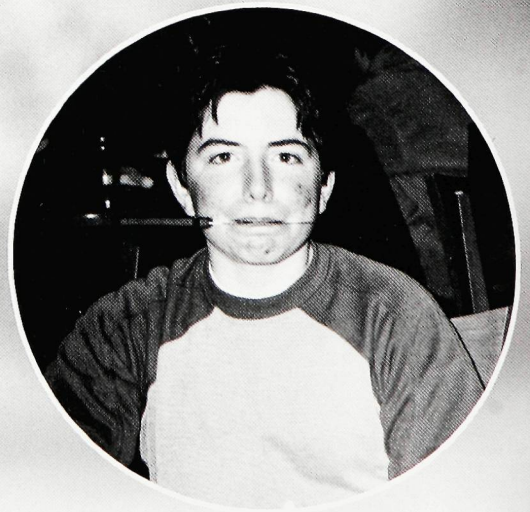

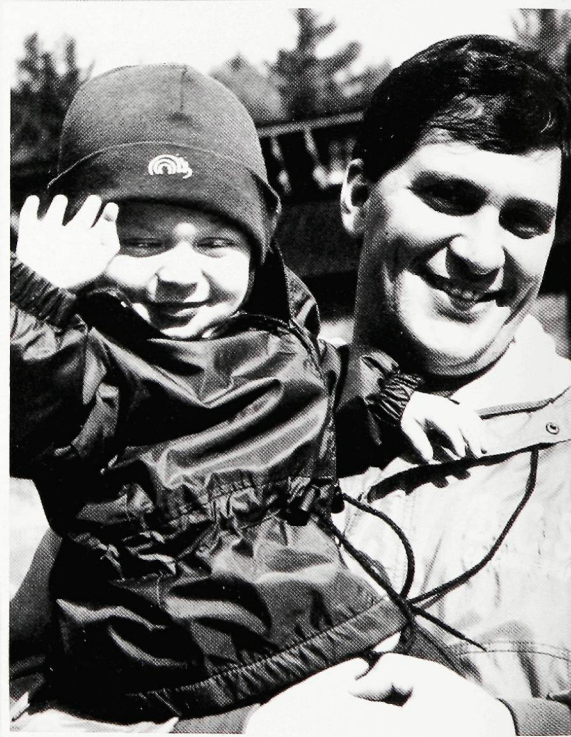

We will all miss the occasional "Dude!" from Max, or Cory's "At the 50 yard line!" But the funniest one of them all would have to be Phil begging the boys to stop picking on him, or Parseh asking: "Hey guys, am I cool?" Our enforcer was Mike asking: "You want a piece, Bizach?" Also, we'll always remember David Collier's annoying voice asking the tuckmaster every minute: "Open Tuck!"

You could always depend on the Asians like David Chiu and Yuichi to have noodles if you needed a quick snack. And their good friend Adam was a pretty quiet guy. One of our favourite friends to ask for noodles was Jason Ou, and he would never reply with a simple no. He would smile and say, "You want noodal, I show you my bast noodal." (The spelling is correct, because that was how he would say it.) We learned not to ask Yun-Ping or Armen for anything. Armen would reply with "You can't have that," and Yun-Ping would say: "Can you teach me?" The one to ask would be Nick, who would often be saying: "I'm so hungry, do any of you have anything to eat?"

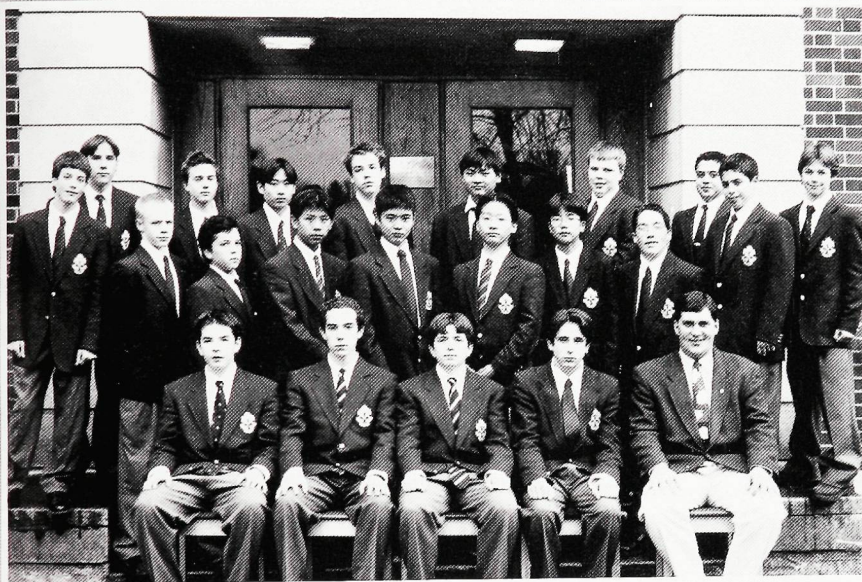

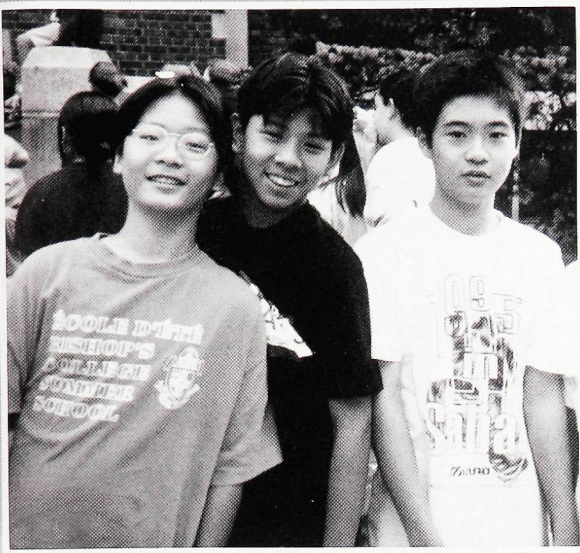

The second floor was a bit different. They were more quiet except for Junior and Pierre-Marc, because they would always laugh or be the loud ones. You would occasionally hear noise from Yuichi and Apinait's room when someone did something wild on Apinait's computer games. The quiet ones like Luis usually listened to music, and his roommate Andre was always on Apinait's computer. Then there was Arturo, the most quiet, and also the quietest captain of the three. Elias, who near the end became roommates with Arturo, was quiet too, but got along with everyone. Felipe was always on his N64.

During the last term of the year we received an exchange student named David from Germany in replacement for Mike-I-have-way-too-many-characters-in-my-short-stories-McCubbin. McCubbin always had an answer for everything in our house. David learned from Mike how to say: "What's up, cheetah?"

So that pretty much sums up the whole year for us at South. It went by quickly, but was a blast.

GILLARD HOUSE

Gillard's Revenge in the year 2000: All the girls signed out to Lenn and took over the world! Julia C. and Amy play Carnegie Hall, Lauren M. checked out to South Park, Natasha has her own Talk Show but still doesn't gossip. In the Well "Cachis, cachis, cachis" is the new hit single, Leticia and Paula have new funky moves on the dance floor Saturday night, while Nathalie is at home, babysitting (Just kidding!)

Suraiya's dream job: working at the movies, Katie's: making the movies (too bad they're sci-fi) and Gretchen is sleeping the entire time cause she missed the bus. Jacky has 182 quotes but she's paranoid right now and (diva) Xiao's all taped up at the moment. Prince Will stole Jill the day after grad but she's still NOT A PRINCESS! Danielle & Michelle have yet to save the empire while Lauren C. tried very hard for the hockey team (doesn't that suck for Bella?). Can you translate for Raquel? Maria? What's going on! Julia M., the heartbreaker, is dumping Mr. Hanky, Maggie has become the Queen of Tuck and Alex is still the master with force (right Crystal? Concentrate! No Hello Kitty). Rad has the s/p shakers, LAPS! Fire alarm? No, that's just Chrissy testing our security.

Back at Gillard (bedtime, girls? Please?) The phone will still be ringing for Alana, and remove your shoes Melissa, before entering Utshi and Tanya's room (enter through the window to the happiest place on earth). Maria Jose to Marcella 'aie!', Anna K. lost her fears of mummies, newfie fighting is an Olympic sport and the Spanish connection + Hannah = Snowchicks still trying to carve. Liz admitted to being American and Anna never left: she's still on the balcony.

Good bye to the future Mrs. Usher and we remember that glass is always breakable!

GLASS HOUSE

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS, or, Adventures in Wonderland

It is the year 2010, and we have all come together for the Glass House reunion, held in our beautiful blue common room. The Reid family arrives first, with Becky following behind, sporting a new haircut. At the buffet, they are met by Karen and Monica who have just opened a restaurant in Karen's room specializing in seaweed. We are happy to see Mrs. Greffard, Mme. St. Jacques, and Mrs. Harding turn up (with her little angels!). Kim walks in, drenched from her swim across from Lenn, with word that Liz is tanned in Florida and unable to attend. Misha manages to get the night off from her snowboard training sessions as she prepares for the upcoming Olympic Games. At the door, Nisha is handing out a copy of her latest CD, and Giselle in manning her Mexican candy stand. Tat comes in, demanding Pulparindos, while talking about her latest adventures at Thursday's, and Melina and Ritu have joined the Spice Faculty. Mealwhile, Amitha is entertaining Francesca and Chung-Bi with stories from Italy. Shannon and Jess call for tuck. We are all surprised to see that Vivi had ducked through Christina's decorated doorway at a whopping 7'2", and that Sarah R. has crawled in, recently released from her rehab at a Coca-Cola addiction centre. Song-Yee sets up camp with her laptop and internet, which upsets Chelsea because the latter is waiting impatiently for a call. Alina has managed to find her way from Montreal, mostly by following Steph's luminous socks, the likes of which she has a difficult time seeing through all of the fog. Out of nowhere pops sexy Jena, ripping the mic out of Jess's hands, who has, in the meantime, been boring Liz to tears with information, and who has also, subsequently, begun to burp vehemently, while the likes of Nancy and Jesse attempt to intruct her upon the methods which she might employ to calm Jesse's nerves. Katrin and Ale bust out on the dance floor, head-banging and jazzercising, respectively. Hannae walks in, shopping bags in hand. Erika is handing out business cards, and Heather helps Hope carry in some of her new, flexible trees. Joannie Barbot enters, showing off her new rock, while Hana shows off her new do. Rinko rushes in, sporting the latest in fashion, followed by Sarah Teed, who is adorned in her current NHL uniform. Amelia is at a family reunion and sends her regrets. Finally, Bianca shows up last, only to begin mothering us all over again.

SPECIAL EVENTS

A case of over-booking, "My Very Own Story" belonged to three distinct individuals. Each of whom believed the theater was theirs for the evening, surprise, surprise! Using childish games to decide whose version the audience would see, the character of Percy Parton (played by Jake Belford) finally comes out on top.

Ms. Dionne's first kick at the BCS Players Club certainly was a success. All members of the cast and crew will have a slew of hilarious memories to take with them from this experience. From Erik's knobby knees, to Jake and Titch's first attempts at the soap opera scene, to our Australian exchange student Jeremy repeatedly running into the wall in the dark, to Mike's "And now to mount you," and finally to the unfortunate incident during our first Dress Rehearsal where John managed to step on my skirt (only to send it tumbling to the floor), it was truly a wild and enjoyable ride. What I'll remember most of all is John's firm derriere!

On behalf of the cast and crew of "My Very Own Story" thank you Ms. Dionne for your undying patience and hard work, Garth -- for your expertise, Mr. Mooney -- for your skill and determination, Mr. Paluch -- for your musical abilities, Mrs. Rand -- for your extra help, and finally Caroline -- for your advice. And of course a big thank you to all of you who came to cheer us on!
